PRAIRIE LAND COOPERATIVE of Hubbard, Iowa, saw it was going to be a big harvest. Temporary grain storage would be needed. So the decision was made to install a grain pad that could handle the fall harvest, and ultimately become the base for a permanent building.

Prairie Land Cooperative arranged for a compact rock base to be laid. Then Heartland arrived, and in one day, installed a 3-inch asphalt base. The crew then returned to complete the job with a 2-inch asphalt surface, again done in just one day.

The 480 x 200 foot pad, larger than most city blocks, utilized 3,000 tons of asphalt material. Future plans are to erect a building over the pad.

Asphalt can be pre-laid for future building sites.

"...With harvest just around the corner, there was no time to waste. Heartland Asphalt came through."
